

Where am I.

Hexon. A period of dark before light, compression before expansion. Here is pressing together of experiences which have to be allowed to fall into their place. These bits or bites are primarily Mother & Father's desires & preferences contained in this body & seeking expression, dominance. Horses which are to be saddled & ridden. There has to arise a King who knows all the contents & can view the pattern wholly & act accordingly. Such a being is called for now. This compression is to cause awareness of the need - Awareness before fulfillment. The bits need to be sorted out - Compression alone is not enough. Breathing space is needed. When the compression is released, the energies find their own level. Feeling of lack creates fulfillment to fill it in due course.

What appears weak can change to strength as what appears strong weakens & polarities change. Weakness is actually strength in disguise, calling for & thus creating, the change.

The way to change is by purity - one intent. Not two intent and not too intense. Purity embraces everything in one way. Purity is highly discriminate & draws from the whole field, not partially. Not rigid, dogmatic system, but open, loving, immediately aware, inclusive. Knows what is right for now.

What is right is now. Next step for the being is to accept what is happening & realise it is within a field of consciousness. The being is the consciousness, not its contents. Do not inhibit the movement and change will come.

Need to isolate M & F 'horses' & ride them, and then stable them for future use.

Mare Its energy is not fulfilled & ... kicking. MA RE. There is in this tangled confusion a heart beating for wholeness & expression. That is fundamental. Its outer is not as its inner. Outer lack of fulfillment & fear, & having no centre, vulnerable, awfully dependent & angry about that, feeling of worthlessness, are inadequate to express the heart energy. It requires service, beauty, truth, grace. The war between makes being sore & it belts because the rider does not understand the problem. The sea full of sediment is cloudy. The water hasn't changed, but pulling up matter into it makes a difference.

The king rides this horse compassionately. Passion knowing, so horse is ridden compassionately, firmly, gently, not broken. A tough rider gets a rough ride, a gentle rider a gentle ride. Tendency is to ride it in fear based on unknown. Where am I? Where am I going? This fear pulls the horse, it stunts. Relation - one influences the other. The magic between seat & saddle, hand & rein, instructs both.

The control is between horse & rider. That realisation lifts one burden & imposes another. Self determination gives way to being a conductor of what is in between. The horse is a receptor.

The effect on the horse. When the relation operates, the magic fulfils both. Nothing to kick about. Horse & rider are on in service to what is between,

Stallion. Would like to be king. Doesn't want to be controlled. A leader, not questioned, doing what it wills. A nobility, not properly formed, a beautiful free energy not channelled

It is constructive / destructive. Variation can give rise to negativity.

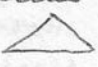

Rider draws out the best. Strengthen the strong, improve the good. This energy will cooperate as efficiency increases its vitality. So work with its underlying nature, which will cooperate to achieve this efficiency. You lead it into service.

Really there should be one horse, one rider. The stallion must become the rider & ride himself & all other horses. Ride in service is the secret, not one's own end; One has, one lacks.

King. is he who conducts the process, who fulfils the needs & organises & understands & master these running energies. Bind them to service. Raise them to service is better, ^{implying} ~~implying~~ inner response - ability.

Present time. The mare runs sometimes in darkness, seeking the sun. It dark & she is not clearly identified by the being. NO clarity of vision, only a feeling awareness & compassion for her. A horse seen by moonlight by the sea.

The stallion feels caged, contained, frustrated, unused, blocked in. Not functioning properly. Instead of running, talking (neighing). Frustration. Reactivity.

King. is the energy that surrounds & articulates what needs to be done in the moment. An awareness in the field.  As energies flow they concentrate to a partial angle. Its total & must be simultaneous. Disjointed energy goes from one horse to another. Both need to be held together. Then the king won't lose his crown.

The being has found 2 horses, but not trained workhorses. They need schooling; discipline to get the best out of them. We are at the stage of getting discipline, which is essential to further progress.

Effect. Shot in foot / it is true. Two voices. The first is a complaint, energised; the other is quieter. The energised v. does not last as long as the other.

One voice doesn't like discipline. You bore me. Who do you think you are? Boring, pompous. We get no fun. (Likes enjoyment. Belly voice.)

Other voice says, I want to get on. Self discipline makes you feel better. Involvement is better. Life is for real.

Hexon. Next move. Live in awareness of what you are doing. Become more aware. Time in. (Surprised - I expected the 10 commandments.) Just become aware.

When you watch yourself you modify instant by instant.